Uniting

Retirement living is much more than bricks and mortar. It's having the freedom to decide how you want to live.

Live in a comfortable, thoughtfully designed home and make the most of your retirement in a Uniting retirement village.

Many of our residents say they appreciate the low-stress lifestyle, with freedom to:

- Socialise
- Connect with family
- Master a hobby
- Hit the road in the caravan.

A trip away can be as simple as locking the door and letting the village manager know your dates. The lawn will be mowed, the garden watered and the mail won't back up.

The maintenance is done for you and you'll spend more time doing the things you enjoy.

Freedom to enjoy life

Life in our retirement communities is all about balance between independence and connection. The choice is yours to engage with community life to the extent that feels right for you. If you want to participate in social events and go on outings, take up new hobbies or continue doing what you love, there are so many opportunities for you.
